

ANNOUNCING...

Sierra Scientific is proud to announce that it has merged with Alpine BioMed's gastro-diagnostic division. All of Alpine's gastrodiagnostic products will move under the Sierra Scientific brand to create the world's leading provider of specialty diagnostic devices for the clinical gastroenterology market.

By adding Alpine's GI products, Sierra Scientific will offer the most complete suite of products available to support clinicians in diagnosing a range of GI-tract disorders including:

- gastroesophageal reflux disease (GERD)
- esophageal motility disorders
- intestinal dysfunction
- pelvic floor disorders

We are excited to provide this comprehensive range of solutions to our customers and will continue to strive to provide the highest level of service and professionalism.

Current Sierra Scientific customers who also have Alpine GI products (PolyGraf ID and Digitrapper) may continue business with their current order processes at this time. All products will be available through Sierra in the near future.

Please feel free to contact us regarding this exciting change. More information is also available about Alpine and Sierra on their websites: www.alpinebiomed.com and www.sierrainst.com
